

Words from a Sermon by Phineas F. Bresee

“The soul that is in this alliance waits, gazingly into the face of Jesus Christ – not a momentary glance, but drinks in of the divine life, listens to the divine voice and feels the deep thrill of the divine Spirit.”

“For this close relationship there must be perfect trust in Jesus Christ. It is impossible for us to realize what perfect trust in Jesus Christ does for us – the rest of soul, the transformation of spirit, the development of character which it brings... the trust life, which looks and lives, that draws its sustenance hour by hour from His life, which is ever looking for and finding richer revelations of His love and power.
This is the richest possible inheritance.”

Phineas F. Bresee
1895